MISS SHEARER.

Rapturous Hours of Home-Making.

[By Norma Shearer.] Miss Norma Shearer, the film tar; before leaving London to reto Hollywood, wrote this article for the Evening Standard expressing her enthusiastic admiration of London as the world's greatest shopping centre.

I like your London shops. They are more individualistic than ours. The assistants are patient, agreeable, and thoroughly charming, and nothing seems any trouble to them.

I had long looked forward to shopping here-all women do-and had come over with definite ideas what I wanted. I have an English nurse for my baby, and months ago she assured me that children's clothes that are made in London are the best in the world.

So one of my first purchases was two tailored coats for my little boy, who is now nearly a year old. He seems to grow every day, and his shoes are never big enough for him, so I bought him lots of shoes llia in kid as well.

Then, too, I like your hairdressers. I had a permanent wave this week. It is an exhausting business, but I was looked after very considerately, and it was done with all possible speed.

After being in Paris, it is lovely to go into a shop and feel confident that you will come out with what you went in for. My French got me into several difficulties. It's so easy to talk in one's own language to a nice helpful girl. In fact, everything is so easy and homelike here.

"Liver Spots." To remove "liver spots" take little powdered magnesia and mix to a thick paste with lemon-juice. Spread this upon the spots, and leave on all night. Repeat the process till the spots disappear.

For spots or patches that are firmly seated, due to neglect or long standing, sponge the affected parts with a little of the following: Borax, 15 grains; sweet almond oil, 5 ozs: powdered Castile soap, 15 grains; water 1 oz; and solution of potash 24 drops. Stereotyped.

Many golfers habitually take a mashie for anything under 70 yards, and an iron for anything over. An iron club without much loft, however, has very great value for the shortest of approaches. If the nature of the shot does not insist that the ball lofted and stopped, there is no point in complicating it by adding left and stop:

Consider a fairly level approach in which the ball is about as far from the edge of the green as the pin itself; in other words, a shot that is halved by the edge of the lipped the hole. Always he left er is compelled to attempt to stop

KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN AND ITS COMPOSER.

It has been said, with more reborn in County Cavan toward the close of the last century. By taking up her abode at a small town in Wiltshire when quite young, and where she resided for many years, her few biographers have been led into the error of supposing her to resumed duty as Secretary for be British. Besides "Kathleen Mayourneen," she wrote over a hundred lyrics, mostly Irish in sentiment, and published, with F. N. Crouch as the composer of the music, a volume of "Irish Songs" in

When Crouch wrote his greatest song he was travelling for a firm of metal brokers in Cornhill. Afterward he was appointed musical director at Drury Lane Theatre and long since achieved name and fame. The words, as already stated, were written by Mrs. Crawford, a contemporary of Mrs. Hemans and His Excellency the Governor has Sheridan Knowles, the Irish dramacomposer; among them the "Swiss Song of Meceting" and "Zephyrs of Love" which achieved immediate success through the inimitable singing of Marie Malibran and Anna Tree, to whom they were respectively dedicated. The melody of "Kathleen Mavourneen," according to Crouch, came as an inspiration one day when he was riding along the banks of the Tamar. Soon afterward he sang it at Plymouth—for he was a capital ballad singer-and for more than half a century it has continued to find a place in concert programmes But although the song is said to have brought in profits to the extent of fifteen thousand pounds it did not enrich the composer, who only received a small sum down for it originally. So hard were the times with Crouch, and issued by the Director of of the great, Rossini, when

WHAT THE PUBLIC DESIRES.

-British Wireless Service.

In the old days, old even Ho Leung, Sham Kam-lai, Ho to Irving, there was very he didn't like it. That happy man in what he was able to appreciate, provided he was willing to put up with all the discomfort of a more or less ramshackle pit and gallery-he was not any softer than were the benches he sat on-yet he did not grumble.

Nowadays all this is changed, and Irving, at the end of his career, was among those who were obliged to adapt themselves to the change.

The man in the street to-day has no longer a claim to the street—he honourable title has gone; he is now ushered into boxes, stalls, or circle. He dresses up to the new role. As we know, he is rapidly becoming all-important.

Outside and inside, he has been tidied up and softened down: he cannot abide a bench, and vastly prefers to sit in comfort. Plays are not less to his liking than Revues or Variety shows, provided the house be well appointed. If his wife enjoys other kinds of entertainment, she anyhow thoroughly detests Shakespeare, or anything serious. He and his wife pay the piper—call the tune-insist on the ventilation being perfet—the cloak-room superb -the entrance-hall regal-the passages well furnished—the carpets thick and soft—the seats downy—; the programmes elegantly printed. And the management "has pleasure in announcing" the trash it offers

Irving to some extent helped to make this trash popular, for he could not prevent it. He could not make the laws and the laws have allowed both journalism and the cinema to cheapen the mind of the public. Had Irving gone ugainst the public he might have had to

GLASGOW STOCK EXCHANGE.

According to Reuter, the Glasgow Stock Exchange has revoked the decision to permit option and continuation business from November 16. It is understood this decision has been taken "at the special request of the Treasury." This Indication of Treasury influence, has caused much comment in City circles, and is taken to prove that the decision of the London Stock Exchange had treasury backing.

INTERNATIONALISM IN SHIPBUILDING.

It is important that students and young engineers and shipbuilders should have impressed upon them the desirability—we would almost call it absolute necessity-of visiting foreign countries, learning foreign languages, reading foreign books and becoming acquainted with the atmosphere in engineering, shipowning on the Continent, as well as in Britain (says the current issue of The Motor Ship). The industries will tend to become more and more international, and those who remain insular in their outlook will find that their understanding of men and affairs of their own industry is too narrow for them to achieve either personal success, or success for the firms to which they are attached.

However little money the embryo shipbuilder and engineer has to spend on his pleasures, part of it at least should be devoted to paying visits abroad and, if possible, inspecting foreign engineering and shipbuilding work. The absence of knowledge concerning foreign developments and foreign ideas appears to us to be one of the serious weaknesses of the British marine engineering and shipbuilding industries at the present

SEAMEN AS PLANTERS.

Of late years a number of pen- ed by sioned naval and military officers have settled down as planters on the salubrious island of Jamaica where living is fairly cheap, income tax low, and the temperature varies not more than one or two degrees in the year round. While every effort is made to attract tourists during the Northern winter months and numbers of people go to the Island for six months of the year, a word of warning is issued by the Tourist Department, in that retired officers who desire ney to take up plantation work should make very strict enquiries before committing themselves to purchases or leases of land.

A TALE OF CHINA.

Wind: West Wind. By Hong Kong.]

Good Earth" some time ago, places us under greater indebtedness with this fuscinating and lovely tale told through the mouth of a Chinese woman. Here we have described that conflict between customs old and new which is now proceeding apace in the great land of China. Here we are given more than glimpses of Chinese home life, family traditions, and worship of ancestors and the sacred past. .. Here we are shown how the yeast of the West is in process of leavening the East, And all that is recorded seems to have been written down without exaggeration. The authoress appears to have eact herself, to be scrupulously fair, and in painting her word pictures has not striven for effect at the expense of truth.

my dears. I expect you wonder- puzzle is:ed what on earth had become of Billikins and me, because we haven't written for so long. 'Matter of fact, we've been taking a kind of holiday, and our pens and pencils have been taking one too.

But now Wendy says we've got to get a move on, and write to the Billy Boys and Wendy Girls because — well, I'll tell you

You see, in our Clan we have Someone-very-sweet whom Wendy calls her "youngest member." This Someone-very-sweet is over seventy years old, but that doesn't matter - except, of course, that she can only be an "honorary member" — because her heart is as young as the heart of the very littlest person in the Clan. Now Someone-verysweet was grumbling --- yes, almost grumbling! - the other day about our Billikins' silence. Sald she missed his chatter, and all the boys and girls missed his | nonsense, and where was he, Cut the upright to the length and what was the matter with ups call a "swollen-head" - caus--80 we thought he had better be quiet for a bit.

But he's coming back to the Corner now; and, if you would like him, well here he is: Does anyone want a Goblin? A fat little Goblin gay?

'Cause WE'VE got a Goblin in the Hut we'd gladly give awayl He'll hurry you and flurry you, and keep you in a stew; He'll worry you and scurry you; quiet hours you'll get but

But if you'd like to risk it well then, all that we can say WE'VE got a Goblin in the Hut, if you'll kindly step this way! What offers for the Billikins, children? Like to hear a bit more about his present behaviour before you decide? All right. Next week, very likely, when we will have an "extra-special" bit of news to give you.

Love to you!

THE CAMP

KEEPING A SCOUT'S INTEREST

In March, 1929, a former Wakefield Boy Scout, Corporal W. D. Shrubsole, died in Palestine as the result of injuries received in an armoured car accident. He had taken an active interest in the Boy Scout Movement in Palestine and to commemorate that interest, his father, Mr. D. W. Shrubsole, has presented to the Palestine Boy Scouts Association a shield for annual competition by the Scouts of Ramle and Lydda.

The shield was formally handed over by Sir John Chancellor, High Commissioner and Chief Scout for Palestine, on the parade ground at the Ramle R.A.F. Aerodrome in the presence of the Boy Scouts of the listrict. After the ceremony the Scouts proceeded to the Military Cemetery where they placed flowers on Corporal Shrubsole's grave.

Overworked Students. Prof. H. R. Dean, Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, speaking at the opening of the centenary year session of King's College Hospital Medical School (London), said that in these days specialisation had become inevitable.

Students of to-day were expected to attain, and in fact did attain, a higher standard in each of their too-numerous examinations.

"We cannot expect," said Prof. Dean, "a medical student to be a specialist in every branch. It is getting very difficult for the student to put together all the little bits of the jig-saw puzzle into which the composite and harmonious picture of medical science has been dissected.
